

Here is a pile of 10 cubes.
If you share the cubes equally between two people,
how many cubes will each person get?
What fraction of the pile of cubes does each person get?

Here are 15 cubes.
You share the cubes equally among three people.
How many cubes does each person get?
Write an equation for what you have done.
Write a division equation for what you have done.
Write a fraction equation for what you have done.

Here is a pile of 40 cubes.
You are going to share the cubes equally among five people.
How many cubes will each person get?
Write a division equation for what you have done.
Write a fraction equation for what you have done.

Here is a pile of 36 cubes.
You are going to share the cubes equally among four people.
How many cubes will each person get?
Write a division equation for what you have done.
Write a fraction equation for what you have done.

Here is a pile of 54 cubes.

You are going to share the cubes equally among three people.

How many cubes will each person get?

Write a division equation for what you have done.

Write a fraction equation for what you have done.